

Dear Family,

The month of November is a great time to talk and ask your child about things they are thankful for. This is an activity that you can do at home with your child together. Having conversations with your child can be entertaining while helping your child develop language skills and learn new words. By talking to your child and involving them in conversation, you can help your child develop new language skills.

“Thankful” Vegetable Activity

- 1. Ask your child to draw a picture of something they are thankful for on the vegetable on the back of this paper.

*Children use drawing to stand for writing. This prepares a child to understand that writing is a means of communicating a message.
- 2. Then have your child write their name under their drawing.
- 3. Ask your child the name and sound of each letter in their name.
- 4. Have your child try to write on their picture what they are thankful for OR have your child copy your writing of their dictation.
- 5. Return the drawing to the teacher.
